National Guard Leaves Cleveland

NEWSROOM NOTES — You can keep your "cool" longer this summer if you keep heat out of your conversation.

Psychologists say that when we complain about how hot we are we soon make ourselves, and those around us, weather weary. Actually there's plenty we can do about hot weather besides talking about it. Here are some helpful hints for a cooler and healthier summer:

Take on fewer calories. You don't need as much food in summer as you do in winter.

Drink plenty of fluids. Studies show that failure to take on plenty of cool drinks when we're perspiring causes that dragged-out feeling many of us have at the end of a hot day. Cool water, milk or fruit juices make excellent thirst quenchers.

Be sure to get enough sleep. In a study made among workers it was found that workers who had lost sleep suffered more from heat than those who had enough rest.

Air conditioners are a help but if they're not in the budget there are other ways of cooling the home. Closing the windows and drawing the blinds during the heat of the day can make a difference of 10 degrees in indoor temperature. An electric fan adds to comfort. Place it so it blows against an opposite wall. This keeps the air in motion. Attic fans help night cooling and keep roof heat from warming up upstairs bedrooms.

Drink alcohol in moderation in hot weather. Alcohol affects the body's heat control mechanism. Though it may at first cool, it tends to build up rather than reduce internal heat.

Cut down on some of the kitchen heat. Serve cool dishes such as salads. Pick foods that re-

Guerrilla Force Attacks Thailand Air Base Friday

SAIGON (AP) — A guerrilla force attacked a U.S. Air Force base in Thailand for the first time in the Vietnam war Friday night, damaging two planes, killing a Thai guard and wounding four Americans.

Two of the enemy were reported killed and one captured during the brief assault on Udorn Air Base in northern Thailand, an area which the Bangkok government says is infested by North Vietnamese-backed guerrillas.

Suspect Arson In Blaze

MOUNT MORRIS — Deputy State Fire Marshall Ken Sheely, Dixon, said today he was asked by Fire Chief Carl Francis to determine the cause of the fire that completely destroyed an unoccupied two-story farm home north of here Friday.

Donald Horst, owner of the building, said it had been vacant for some time and that he used the house to store supplies, including 100 bales of hay and 50 bales of straw, all of which were destroyed in the blaze.

Firemen from five departments battled flames for several hours after being called about 2:30 a.m. by Horst, who told firemen his family, living in a home nearby, had been awakened by a barking dog and had discovered the house in flames.

Horst told investigators there was no electricity actually wired to the house and that the straw and hay were completely dry, apparently eliminating the possibility of spontaneous combustion.

The building and contents were partially covered by insurance, Horst said, and estimated damage is about $1,500 to the building and $400 to the contents.

Associated Press correspondent Peter O'Loughlin reported from Udorn that a guerrilla band of unknown size penetrated the base's perimeter with small arms fire and satchel charges and tried to reach a flight line where the main contingent of F4 Phantom fighter-bombers and reconnaissance jets was parked.

A combined Thai-American security force drove the enemy back as they tried to place explosives around the parked aircraft.

An F4 and a C141 Starlifter, a four-engine jet cargo aircraft fitted for medical evacuation, were damaged by fire. Two Air Force women corpsmen were at the evacuation craft when the attack began, but were not harmed.

The attackers also triggered an ammunition and fuel explosion which was brought under control quickly.

Rocket Attack
In South Vietnam, enemy gunners zeroed in with rockets for the third straight night on the Da Nang fighter base, from which attack missions are also mounted against the panhandle.

Associated Press correspondent Michael Goldsmith reported from Da Nang, 375 miles northeast of Saigon, that one squadron from the 1st Marine Air Wing was temporarily grounded after a Russian-made 100-pound rocket scored a direct hit on a hangar housing several of the Marine A6 all-weather jet intruders. One of the $6 million aircraft was destroyed and another heavily damaged.

One plane, loaded with more than 20 500-pound bombs blew up and burned. Several of the bombs exploded, wrecking the central part of the hangar. Marine maintenance men working on the planes rushed to bunkers when the first of 10 rockets hit the base. No casualties were reported.

In the ground war, 1st Air Cavalry troopers discovered a major enemy base camp that contained large field hospitals, quantities of medicines, narcotics and bandages. The outpost, known as base camp 114, is about 50 miles square and lies west and southwest of the old imperial capital of Hue. It is a sector that has come under heavy B52 bombardment in recent days.

Around Saigon, ground action was reported light.

Three of the four crewmen aboard the two planes were listed as missing and a fourth was rescued after surviving 20 hours in enemy territory.

Troops Withdraw
1,200 National Guard troops from the Negro East Side of Cleveland were withdrawn today by Mayor Carl B. Stokes. Stokes said the "crisis" had passed and that the curfew imposed on the area was lifted. 1,500 other National Guardsmen are standing by, but are expected to be withdrawn Sunday if the situation remains calm.

Stokes Says Crisis Gone

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Mayor Carl B. Stokes, saying the "crisis" had passed today withdrew all National Guard troops from the Negro East Side, torn by violence which left 10 persons dead.

He said there would be no more curfew in the area.

Stokes said 1,200 National Guard troops left at 7 a.m. EDT, today "and will not return."

He said 1,500 other troops would "remain here on a standby basis" but were expected to be withdrawn from the city by Sunday if the situation remained calm.

Stokes said he believed "the crisis is passed." He ordered the city's 2,100 policemen off the emergency 12-hour shifts they had been working since the violence erupted in the East Side Tuesday night when the 10 persons, including three white policemen, were killed.

Memorial Services

Stokes and other city officials were to attend a combined memorial service at 9:30 a.m. today for three white policemen shot and killed by snipers Tuesday night as they rushed to the aid of unarmed occupants of a city tow truck under fire in the East Side.

Fred "Ahmed" Evans, a bearded black nationalist who claimed he instigated the rioting, was to appear at a preliminary hearing on first degree murder charges in the slaying of the three policemen.

The charges against Evans said he "unlawfully, purposely

Sik Says Czech Stalinists Are Wrecking Reform Platforms

PRAGUE (UPI)—Deputy Premier Ota Sik today accused Stalinists inside the Czech Communist party of trying to wreck the reform program already being attacked by the Russians.

Sik, one of the major reform leaders, wrote in the Communist party newspaper Rude Pravo that the Stalinists "still exist among us."

"(Some) still sit among us in more or less important positions in the state, political and economic apparatus," he said. "They are hoping an eventual misunderstanding could boost their dirty plans."

"But they represent no one."

Comes Close
It was as close as any Czech reform leader has come in public to accusing the Stalinists, ousted from party control eight months ago, of trying to oust the reformers now that Moscow is putting pressure on Prague.

At the same time, Sik called on the Russians to show the restraint they showed in January when the reformers ousted Stalinist Antonin Novotny as Czech party leader.

Novotny, scrambling to keep his power, had invited Soviet party first secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev to come to Prague. Brezhnev came but kept hands off the Czech party fight and Novotny fell. Only later did the Kremlin become alarmed at the reformers' drive for "democratization" of Communist rule in Czechoslovakia.

"When the old guard of discredited politicians invited him for a brief visit to support their failing positions, Brezhnev added to the tradition of our relations with four words: 'That is your affair,' Sik said. He called on Brezhnev and his fellow Russians to show the same restraint now.

Boasts of Popularity

Sik said reform has saved the Communist Party from political ruin in Czechoslovakia. His boasting of the sudden popularity of the party here underlined a wave of public support for the reformers as they head toward a day of reckoning with the angry Soviet Politburo.

Calls for defiance against Soviet demands for halting the Czech party drive for more democracy did not come alone from Communists and government officials. Thousands of citizens signed petitions. Letters and telegrams of support poured into party offices.

Observers said Alexander Dubcek, the Czech party first secretary and chief reformer, has let the support build to a point that leaves him little room for maneuver or compromise with the Russians.

The date of the confrontation meeting between Soviet and Czech party leaders remained secret. But informed sources said it would open Monday or Tuesday. It may be announced only when the talking is done.

The Soviets claim—in a thunderous propaganda barrage raging from Moscow — that Czechoslovakia is in danger of going capitalist, slipping from the East bloc. This, Moscow has said officially, it will not tolerate. The Russians have especially denounced the Czechs' new freedom of speech. There is fear of Soviet armed intervention. Russian divisions are maneuvering just across the Soviet border.

The Czech army newspaper Obrana Lidu has vowed that Czechs will not commit "suicide" by giving into Kremlin demands for halting the "democratization" drive. Dubcek, talking to a factory group Friday, gave his people the word: "Be assured that we shall succeed."

Postal Cutback Put Off As Congress Considers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first in a series of postal service cutbacks, scheduled to take effect today, has been put off for a week while Congress considers exempting the Post Office Department from federal manpower reductions.

Postmaster General W. Marvin Watson announced the stay late Friday after the Senate voted to exempt postal service from the manpower cuts, dictated by the recently passed income tax bill.

He gave the House a week to follow suit.

Under a timetable announced July 12 the department had planned to cut window service today at first and second class post offices to a maximum of two hours and to put Saturday collections from street boxes on Sunday schedules.

The department said these were the first steps in a sharp curtailment of operations that eventually would lead to closing of 12,000 small branches and restricting of residential deliveries to four days a week.

The Senate added its exemption as a rider to a minor post office bill, opening the way for House approval without having to go through the committee process.

Congress is scheduled to adjourn next Friday until September so members can attend the national political conventions.

Watson Says

Watson said he put off the cutbacks "because the vote of the Senate today indicates an understanding of our highly critical problem of handling a larger workload with a smaller work force."

Under the income tax bill, which increased the individual tax rate 10 per cent and ordered federal spending cut by $6 billion, all government agencies are to cutback personnel to the June 1966 level.

This would cost the post office 83,000 employees over the next two years by preventing it from filling one in every four vacancies.

Reaction

Reaction of congressmen, who felt any exemptions to the tax bill would hurt its effectiveness, was cool until reports spread on Capitol Hill late last week that the department was escalating cutbacks to include thousands of branches and eventually a four day week for some services.

Two senators, Frank Lausche, D-Ohio, and John J. Williams, R-Del., criticized Friday's action.

Lausche said it "torpedoed all the good" in the tax bill. Williams said it may have "paved the way to a major depression" by rejecting restraint.

Steelworkers Unable To Reach Wage Settlement; Strike Pends

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The chief negotiators for the United Steelworkers of America (USW) and 11 major steel companies today said they were unable to reach a "basis for settlement" of their wage contract dispute.

I. W. Abel, USW president, and R. Conrad Cooper, chief negotiator for the companies, said in a joint statement they would meet during the weekend in an effort to reach agreement on a new wage contract and avert a threatened strike of 400,000 steelworkers at midnight Wednesday.

Abel and Cooper described as "completely false" a report the companies had made an offer for a 90-cent wage-fringe benefits package spread over three years.

Their joint statement did not deny specifically some sort of offer had been made by the companies, but appeared to indicate an offer was not made.

"To put the record straight," the statement said, "this is the situation. Neither side has been inflexible in its position thus far. We have been attempting to solve our problems and reconcile our divergent views. In short, we have been searching for a common ground—the basis for settlement."

"To date, we have not found that basis. We continue the search."

Abel summoned the union's two top wage contract policy groups to meetings here Monday to decide on a course of action.

The contract negotiations began June 24 and were conducted in complete secrecy.

Last Tuesday, the steelworkers voted by a better than 9-1 margin to authorize the leadership to call a strike at midnight next Wednesday if a settlement was not reached by then.

Steelworkers now average $3.71 an hour. The industry maintains fringe benefits push this figure to $4.88 an hour.

Earlier in negotiations the steel industry said such a 6 per cent hike would wipe out much of the industry's 1967 profit and could bankrupt some steel firms. The USW contract with big steel is a pattern setter in the industry.

The union membership gave its leaders an overwhelming vote of confidence when they voted strike authorization by a 9-1 margin.

Humphrey Calls Kennedy Decision 'Understandable'

By United Press International
Sen. Edward M. Kennedy has flatly removed himself from contention for the Democratic vice presidential nomination.

Kennedy said Friday his decision not to seek the nomination was "final, firm, and not subject to further consideration."

He said his reasons for declining the nomination, which Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey appeared willing to offer if he was nominated, were "purely personal . . . they arise from the change in my personal situation and responsibilities as a result of the events of the last month."

"I know that the members of the Democratic Party will understand these reasons without further elaboration."

Kennedy said he had informed both Humphrey and McCarthy of his decision.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., a contender for the Democratic presidential nomination, had no comment. Humphrey called the decision "understandable."

Humphrey also said he welcomed Kennedy's decision to speak out on major issues.

In other political developments:

Briefings—Presidential candidate George C. Wallace received a secret foreign affairs briefing at the State Department Friday and also met with President Johnson. GOP candidate Richard M. Nixon had a 90 minute "man to man, across the table" talk with President Johnson Friday on international affairs. Nixon termed the briefing "very helpful."

Humphrey—Texas Gov. John Connally said Friday he and five other governors have told the vice president to select a more moderate running mate if he receives the presidential nomination because "you're a liberal."

Sources close to the vice president said former postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien has been appointed coordinator of Humphrey's presidential campaign.

Nixon—The former vice president announced Friday the formation of an anticrime council to help him, as president, map out a war against the underworld.

GOP—House Republican leader Gerald Ford said Friday the Republicans will have an "open" convention next month in Miami and predicted that it would go past two ballots to choose its presidential nominee.

By GEORGE W. CRANE, M.D.

CASE G-536: Donna D., aged 19, is a college sophomore.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "why do so many boys nowadays try to get fresh on the first date and act as if they have nothing but sex on their minds?"

"Men aren't physically any more virile or sexy nowadays than in past generations, are they?"

"So why do modern boys act like savages?"

ing a date.

And many stupid mothers have actually abetted the immorality of their coed daughters by sending them a supply of the "Pill."

Fortunately, there are still millions of young people who relish dating for the sake of jolly picnics, dancing, attending church or concerts together, and just sitting close as they engage in conversation.

Remember, unless a boy and girl can enjoy chatting by the hour, they are not likely to have a happy marriage!

For sex is but a brief interlude in the married couple's week!

They must be able to converse at the dinner table or even argue about current events or politics as they do the dishes together.

They must share mutual hobbies and feel an aura of generalized happiness just to be in the same room, even though separated by other people at parties.

A cultured couple thus enjoy each other's total personality, though they may only stroll across the campus, hand in hand.

This crude modern campus craze to "sleep together" is an insult to our entire college tradition and as pagan a concept as Attila the Hun's intention to ravish Rome.

When religious idealism and mutual cultural interests are cast aside in favor of campus boar-sow sex gluttony, the participants have meanwhile degenerated to an infra-human level!

The Roman Republic experienced a similar degradation of morality before it finally rotted into oblivion.

Our formerly virile Republic cannot long endure the trend toward Sodom and Gomorrah that now typifies our cities.

So send for my 200-point "Tests for Sweethearts," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents, and learn what traits produce permanently happy marriage.

Goodwill?

AURORA, Ill. (UPI)—Police were attracted to a Goodwill Industries clothes collection box on a street corner when they saw a man talking excitedly into the container.

The patrolmen helped the man pull his companion from the box. It seems that on the way home from a local pub one of the men wondered if the other would fit into the chute. He did.

MARKETS

Here is a summary of this week's trading at Chicago's stockyards:

Barrows and gilts: U.S. 1-3 200-240 lbs sold from 21.00-21.75 in Chicago. U.S. 1-2 205-225 lbs brought 22.00-22.50. U.S. 2-4, 220-260 lbs, turned at 20.50-21.25 direct trade in the cornbelt area found U.S. 1-3 200-240 lbs selling from 19.75-20.50.

Slaughter steers: During the week, prime 1250-1375 lbs yield grade 3 and 4 28.50-28.75. Mixed high choice and prime 1150-1400 lbs 28.00-28.50. Choice 1000-1400 lbs yield grade 2 to 4 27.00-28.00. Mixed good and choice 26.50-27.00.

Slaughter heifers: Mixed high choice and prime 880-1025 lbs yield grade 3 and 4 27.00-27.25. Choice 800-1025 lbs yield grade 2 to 4 26.25-27.00. Mixed good and choice 25.75-26.25.

Sheep: Compared with last week's close spring slaughter lambs sold 1.00-1.50 lower while Wethers as much as 2.00 off. Slaughter ewes were steady and feeder lambs steady to 1.00 lower. Primary factor in the downturn was a lower carlot dressed lamb trade as slaughter under federal inspection this week estimated at 199,000 is below the 213,000 head of last week and 221,000 a year ago.

Spring slaughter 1 a m b s: Choice and prime 90-110 lbs sold from 25.00-27.00, mostly 25.50-26.50.

LOOKING AROUND

By E. G.

Happy birthday to . . . Jean Covert and Douglas Shaw, the 30th . . . Mary Swanson, August 1st . . . Mrs. Tillie Cook and Jim Glessner, the 2nd.

Colorado was great . . . there's nothing quite so thrilling or satisfying as being a dinner guest of a happily married daughter and her husband . . . particularly when the daughter is an excellent cook — a good little apartment keeper—and both are a gracious host and hostess.

Have always wanted to see Central City and on this trip to Boulder my wish was fulfilled — thanks to Mrs. Louis (Rae) Sinow, former Dixonite now of Denver, Colo. . . . founded in 1859 during the gold rush days, Central City is situated in the mountains at an elevation of 8,515 feet and is approximately 35 miles from Boulder . . . once known as the "richest square mile on earth" today it lays claim to being the oldest gold mining town in the United States.

As one drives along a canyon road into the town one can't help but be aware of still-standing signs of a rip-snorting gold and silver mining town of the mid 80's . . . how they must have lived it up when they struck it rich . . . here and there a few remaining old homes dating back to the gold rush days — homes ornate with gingerbread trim and high-peaked roofs . . . fun to wander along the streets of the now restored business section and spot such places as "Bonanza," catering to those desiring western wear — the "Golden Key," for lodging, food and drinks . . . "Chain O' Mines" hotel . . . "Grubstake Inn" . . . and for good measure oodles of old time honky-tonks with their blaring music; antique shops, gift shops and import shops.

Famed is the old Opera House, built of solid granite by the Cornish and Welsh miners in 1878 . . . now owned by the University of Denver, light opera and Broadway plays have been presented throughout the summer months since its opening and renovation in 1932 . . . Helen Hayes, Katherine Cornell, Shirley Booth, Julie Harris, Mae West and scores of other well-known stage and TV artists have appeared on the stage of this old opera house.

We had luncheon at the Teller House known as the grandest and most elegant hotel west of the Mississippi during those gold rush days . . . President Grant visited Central City in 1873 and the Teller House was his headquarters during his inspection of the mining areas . . . his room, furnished with reproductions of that period, is open to tourists . . . hanging in the upstairs hall are two very old diamond-back mirrors valued at $200.00.

In the Teller House saloon is the world-famed painting of the "Face on the Bar Room Floor" . . . being a sucker for legends — it was exciting to see even though I had been slightly mixed up on the "Why" of its being there . . . had always believed the painting dated from the gold rush days and had been done by a down-and-out miner in payment for a drink while bemoaning his lost love . . . discovered this wasn't exactly so . . . the painting was done by a well-known Denver artist, Herndon Davis, in 1936 . . . but it had been inspired by the poem, "Face on the Bar Room Floor," written in the '80's by H. Antoine D'Arcy . . . in the poem, a miner creeps into a bar and begs for a drink . . . he tells the story of a woman whom he loved and lost — and for another drink he will paint the face of his beautiful and beloved Madeline upon the bar room floor . . . "Then, as he placed another look upon the shapely head, with fearful shriek, he leaped, and fell across the picture, — dead." . . . now we may wonder if Eureka Street, Central City's main thoroughfare, got its name from the gold seekers who shouted "Eureka, I've struck it rich," when they hit pay-dirt.

St. James Methodist Church, the oldest church in Colorado, is located here — as it the oldest drug store, built in 1861 . . . a special treat was viewing the 21st annual exhibition of painting, sculpture, ceramics and crafts of the Gilpin County Arts Association . . . it is housed in what was originally the old jail . . . Rae Sinow was one of the artists invited to participate in this year's exhibit . . . her paintings now hanging in the gallery include "Dance Sequence," "Wind-blown," and "Riot" . . . a decided contrast to what we saw called "Art" at the University of Colorado art exhibit in Boulder.

News items from other newspapers . . . in the Lincoln, Neb., Evening Journal came across this: "Rocky is sending personal post-cards to two million voters. Just a picture of the White House and a brief message — 'Wish I were here.'"

The Rocky Mountain News (Denver) carried a report on the Poor People's March . . . cost the taxpayers more than $1 million . . . itemized costs included $36,000 to restore and resod park property; $15,400 for park police; $5,600 for cleanup crews; $18,500 to dismantle Resurrection City; $5,076 for repair of trees and shrubs; $1,860 for other repairs and replacement of park property.

Before leaving for Colorado had read in Human Events, by-lined by Robert S. Allen and John Goldsmith, a congressional investigators report that "Abernathy and numerous other SCLC officials and families never spent a night in Resurrection City . . . they lived in the best hostleries, ate in the best dining places, and shopped in the best stores at one motel, alone, they paid a bill of $20,000 . . . Mrs. Abernathy and agroup of SCLC wives bought $400 dresses in one of Washington's most expensive stores." . . . just another example of the poor getting the short end of the deal while their leaders reap the benefits.

Mrs. Sidney Sinow and son, David, returned Monday from a restful and relaxing week at French Lick Springs, Ind. . . . Dr. and Mrs. Gordon McFetridge, Jane and Shelia, vacationed this week in Wisconsin . . . and tonight, the Dixon Country Club is having a wow of a luau.

Posies to . . . Alberta and Bill Wolfe, celebrating their Pearl wedding anniversary, the 30th . . . Alice and "Red" White, their 27th, Aug. 2nd.

Data Processing Lease Renewed At Cost of $1

Sauk Valley College recently renewed its lease for facilities for the college's data processing center from the Commonwealth Edison Company in Dixon at a token cost of one dollar.

Dr. Edward J. Sabol, president, SVC, said Commonwealth Edison is providing the college for the third year with office, classroom, storage and machine space in its building at 815 W. First St., at the nominal rental charge.

The center, in addition to processing all college records, also houses classroom space for Sauk Valley's associate in applied science degree in electronic data processing.

Roy White, director of data processing, said the curriculum offers integrated study of the theory and practice of data processing for business, industrial and institutional use. The program has been designed to prepare a student for employment as a data processing technician and supervisor as well as a computer programmer for industry and governmental agencies.

About $28 billion is the amount of money farmers spend each year for all the equipment, goods and services needed to produce crops and livestock. Today, nearly 6,000,000 persons have jobs that help fill the demand generated by this vast market, according to Elmer Rice, chairman, Division of Agricultural Education, Sauk Valley College.

Sauk Valley College's agricultural business curriculum provides training in such areas as the handling, hauling and selling of feed, seeds, fertilizers, farm chemicals, animal products and farm hardware.

The SVC program, which enables the student to earn an associate in applied science degree, combines theoretical classroom instruction with on-the-job training.

Nearly one-fourth of the college credit needed by a student for the degree in agriculture at SVC is earned through this on-the-job experience.

The student also takes a minimum number of standard college courses in English, natural science, social science and humanities as well as such specialized agricultural courses as Principles of Animal Science, Introduction to Agricultural Business Management, Principles of Feeding and Crop Science.

Oregon Council Previews Tax Levies; Tables Ordinance

OREGON — The Oregon City Council previewed tax levy for the coming year and then tabled action on the ordinance until the Aug. 9 council session.

In other action, the council approved payment of $3,132 to the Oregon Stone Quarry for 220 tons of stone, 163 tons of hot mix which will be used to widen streets to 30 feet and includes 850 feet of asphalt curbing in the Timberling Terrace area.

The council also approved the issuance of a Class A liquor license to Carl Vincier, Freeport, subject to the surrender of the license from Cynthia Robeins, former owner of the Blackhawk Tavern, which Vincier purchased.

The tax levy ordinance calls for a seven-cent coliseum levy, 4.166 cents for the streets and bridge and .333 for corporation purposes.

The ordinance also calls for $2,500 for municipal employees Social Security payments and $1,500 for a city audit.

Mayor Harry Wade and the council expressed appreciation to Police Chief Willard Burright and his men for the quick clean-up of city streets following the 125th anniversary celebration.

Liquor Charge

Daniel C. McCann, 24, 503 Crawford Ave., charged with drinking in public view, is being held in County Jail in lieu of payment of bond pending a court appearance.

McCann was arrested, police said, while drinking an alcoholic beverage on the sidewalk in front of the B&B Lounge, 81 S. Galena Ave.

More Than Food Is Needed To Solve Hunger Problem

By DON KENDALL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hunger in the United States is mainly a health problem that cannot be solved by simply putting more food in undernourished or empty bellies, says a new report.

The report, circulating among influential medical people, public officials and researchers, is highly critical of a study by the Citizens Board of Inquiry earlier this year.

The citizens board's findings that thousands of people are starving in the United States were based on factual error, lack of knowledge and too much emotion, says the new report.

The report is entitled "Hunger USA—A Critical Review."

The author is Dr. Herbert Pollack, a staff member of the Institute for Defense Analyses, a private corporation which handles a variety of research projects for the Pentagon.

Not Endorsed

The IDA said the Pollack report was his own and is not endorsed by the organization. It was published by IDA, a spokesman said, "as a courtesy" to Pollack, who was described as "a widely recognized authority in the medical profession."

The published findings of the Citizens Board of Inquiry have weighed heavily in efforts for expanded food programs.

"It is unfortunate that a report of this importance should contain so many factual errors and manifest a lack of basic knowledge of nutrition," Pollack said.

Political

"It must be considered more of a political polemic than a scientific treatise. It seems to stir up action based on an emotional appeal," he added. "As a scientific document it fails to supply the necessary information to direct the energies of the responsible people into the proper channels of corrective measures."

An example, Pollack said, is a hunger report statement that nutritional anemia stemming primarily from protein and iron deficiencies was commonly found in 30 to 70 per cent of the children from poverty backgrounds.

Deaths and Funerals

Lynn Alan Gustafson

ROCHELLE — Funeral services for Lynn Alan Gustafson, 27, 610½ N. Sixth St., DeKalb, who was killed in an auto-truck crash Friday, will be held at 1:30 p.m. Monday in the United Methodist Church, here, with the Rev. Comodore Chasteen, pastor, officiating.

Burial will be in the Greenview Cemetery, Esmond.

Friends may call in the Unger Funeral Home from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Sunday.

Gustafson was born April 19, 1941, the son of Earl and Maretta Foster Gustafson in Rochelle. He attended Rochelle schools, graduating from Rochelle Township High School in 1959, and was a 1968 graduate of Northern Illinois University.

He was employed at the Swift and Company Plant here. In addition, Gustafson was attending summer school at NIU, and was a member of the Rochelle United Methodist Church.

He was married to Helen Allen July 10, 1962 in Rochelle.

He was preceded in death by his father in 1956.

Gustafson is survived by his widow and two sons, Mark and Matthew, all of DeKalb; his mother, Esmond; a brother, Gary of Cocoa, Fla., and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Bert (Maude) Gustafson, Rochelle.

Mrs. Rose Dunphy

AMBOY — Mrs. Rose Dunphy, 87, Amboy, died early today at the Orchard Glen Nursing Home, Dixon.

She was born Dec. 26, 1881, the daughter of Patrick and Sara McCabe McCoy, in Amboy.

She was married to Patrick Henry Dunphy Feb. 12, 1908, in Amboy.

Mrs. Dunphy was preceded in death by her husband in 1956, and two sons and two sisters and three brothers.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. J. A. (Mary) Blackburn, Dixon; three sons, James and Charles, both of Rt. 1, Amboy, and Edward of Sullivan; 20 grandchildren and 24 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 9 a.m. in the Mihm Funeral Home and at 9:30 a.m. in St. Mary's Catholic Church, Walton, with the Rev. James Lafferty officiating.

Burial will be in St. Patrick's Cemetery, Amboy.

Friends may call after 2 p.m. Sunday in the funeral home.

The Rosary will be at 8 p.m. Monday in the funeral home.

Wrong Hairy End

WOLVERHAMPTON, England (UPI)—Hundreds of women answered an ad for someone "squirrel-shaped" to play the part of "Mrs. Fluffytail" in a children's road safety program. The job went Friday to bearded ex-policeman Patrick McGinty, the lone male applicant.

and wilfully killed Lt. Leroy Jones, patrolman Louise Galonka and patrolman Willard Wolff, each a duly appointed officer of the city."

"If my carbine hadn't jammed," Evans told three officers who arrested him, "I would have killed you three. I had you in my sights when my rifle jammed."

Arrested Wednesday

Evans was arrested Wednesday morning. Police said he had plotted a "black revolution" in May, 1967.

Del Corso said he hoped the entire contingent of guardsmen would be gone from the city Sunday.

He said Friday that for the first time there was a "lack of any general hostility on the part of the residents in the area" to the presence of the guard. "Many residents took time out to thank the troops for being here," he said.

Stokes, first Negro mayor of a major American city, had refused Wednesday night to permit the guardsmen or white police into the area. Only Negro officers and about 500 civil rights leaders were sent in to maintain peace.

The action touched off a minor police rebellion against Stokes.

quire the quick broil rather than the slow bake. Make liberal use of frozen foods and take advantage of that outdoor grill. Paper plates, cups and plastic utensils cut down on your work in the kitchen.

Don't worry about the color of your clothing. Though dark colors absorb heat more than light colors the difference in reflective qualities of clothing is so small that color makes little difference to hot-weather comfort.

On those sweltering nights let the kids stay up a little later than their usual bedtime. The chances are they'll get to sleep sooner if you let them stay up later. And you won't get overheated arguing about it.

Avoid hot or cold showers. The best temperature for baths or showers is water of skin temperature, or slightly below 80 to 90 degrees. Water is more efficient than air in adding or removing heat. Cold water increases the body's insulation by shrinking the skin's blood vessels. Hot water takes the pep out of you.

causes," including chronic bleeding, intestinal parasites, iron deficiency, protein deficiency, inherent bone-marrow diseases and many others.

Pollack said the hunger report asked whether poor people getting food through welfare programs receive enough protein in "starch foods" such as potatoes, grits, rice, cornpone, bread and beans.

The implication was, Pollack said, that children suffer physical damage from such diets.

"While beans and rice may be considered starch foods," he said, "they are also excellent sources of protein and serve as the background for much of the world's protein."

Pollack said the health problems of Negroes "are inseparably connected with his poor housing, unemployment and inadequate education" and that "the health problem of the Negro are also the health problems of the poor."

Improved sanitation and education campaigns should be the "first order of attack" in solving the problems of the poorly nourished, Pollack said.

Proper Disorder Stops When Rights Are Violated

WILLIAM E. BROCK

"Where the law ends, tyranny begins," warned the great eighteenth century statesman, William Pitt, and for thousands of years now history has borne out his words.

Today, around the world, we are seeing fresh proof of this timeless principle. Growing numbers of law-abiding citizens have suffered from the excesses of vocal political minorities using mob tactics to trample on the rights and the opinions of the majority. These few have ignored the thin line separating dissent from disobedience.

America, once considered the bastion of orderly progress, has fallen victim to this world epidemic along with other less stable nations. And so we find ourselves in need today, more than ever, of a clear workable answer to the question of where lawful protest ends and anarchy begins.

It is unfortunate that it has taken so many high government officials so long to realize this fundamental truth. For nearly eight years now, national leaders from the President on down have been encouraging those with real or imagined grievances to "overcome" by any means available. Vice President Hubert Humphrey, now the leading contender for the Democratic nomination for president, went so far as to excuse the bloody insurrection in Watts, explaining that he too would have resorted to violent rebellion had he lived under similar conditions.

I am concerned because many in the land have seized upon the name of "liberalism," which has historically meant "greater individual participation in government," to espouse permissiveness, disinvolvedness in legitimate processes, and even lawlessness. Fortunately, this irresponsible, dangerous spirit of permissiveness has never taken root with a majority of Americans of all classes and races. They remain convinced that, in the words of Lincoln, "there is no grievance that is a fit object of redress by mob law."

Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas, whom President Johnson has selected to replace retiring Chief Justice Earl Warren, recently defined some of the limits of legitimate dissent.

Commenting on the violent seizure and sack- ing of Columbia University by a mob of young radicals, Fortas denounced the action as "totally inexcusable from the point of view of even primitive morality."

"The advocacy of civil rights does not . . . justify the abandonment of all decency," he added.

Commenting on the oft-used label of "civil disobedience," Fortas emphasized that when "civil disobedience takes the form of disrupting traffic, preventing people from going to their offices, their homes — that is a violation of law that should not be called 'civil disobedience.'"

"It is simply lawbreaking on a large scale. The fact that it is a protest does not rescue it."

Slowly and painfully, many so-called "liberals" have begun to reappraise their own soft line on lawlessness as the disastrous results of their philosophy become more and more obvious. Perhaps what we need most at this time is a simple set of guidelines, which might constitute a recognizable line between dissent and disobedience.

1) No form of lawful protest can violate the constitutional rights of any group or individual. Violation of another's rights weakens rather than strengthens both parties' chances of enjoying maximum freedom.

2) In America, no man or group of men can be placed above the law's enforcement or beneath its protection. We are a nation and a society based on fair and equal enforcement of the law. Therefore, when a band of "protesters," no matter what cause they claim to espouse, breaks a law, they are just as guilty, and just as responsible as any other citizen.

3) In any exciting and changing society such as ours, there will always develop dislocations and injustices that must be set aright through legal processes. Thus as one American jurist put it, "the law must be stable but it must not stand still." Even so, if we are to overcome injustice, the change can only come through lawful evolution, not lawless revolution. To achieve this goal, all Americans must be encouraged to participate in the processes of government, and specifically discouraged from actions outside the law.

Welcome to Xanadu. The story of a 16-year-old girl who is ab- ducted by an escapee from a mental institution.

The Battle of Toulouse, by Jo- se Cabanis. The author's narra- tor is a middle-aged writer at a stalemate — caught by the novel he cannot write and the love affair he can neither break off nor bring to a happy co- clusion.

A Place for the Wicked, by Elleston Trevor. A suspenseful novel of guilt, innocence, re- demption and retribution. The killing of a London policeman by one of a group of friends, for which they are all equally punishable by English law, turn their holiday into a nightmare.

Dear Ann:

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Our 20-year-old daughter met a graduate student at school several months ago. Last weekend she invited Byron to spend a few days with us so he could meet the family and the family could meet him.

My husband and I found him tense, strained, humorless and uncommunicative. We could it for HIM, not HER. Please advise. — FEELING ROBBED

Dear Feelings: The gifts are considered part of the house- hold goods and unless some special arrangement is made in the divorce settlement, the house- hold goods usually go with the house — which usually goes to the wife. Your son should dis- cuss this with his lawyer.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a self-ad- dressed, stamped envelope.

Pvt. Kenneth Fox, who has been home on a 13-day furlough visiting with his mother, Mrs. Marie Fox, left this morning for his post at San Antonio, Texas.

Thousands of Chinese officers and enlisted men will be schooled in American Infantry and artillery practices at two new centers which the United States Army has established in the Himalayan foothills. Scores of Chinese have already com- pleted courses and have re- turned to their units to instruct others. The progress will continue until the whole of the Chi- nese army has been affected.

Victory nears as fourth year of war closes. Anniversary of war which occurs tomorrow finds autocracy losing hold. The world has fought its way through bloodshed and horror for four years, July 28.

The 31st annual session of the Rock River Assembly opened this afternoon with a splendid crowd present. Dr. Derr of Chi- cago presided during the open- ing exercises, and the invoca- tion was delivered by Rev. Jesse M. Tidball, pastor of the Dixon Presbyterian church.

Dear Ann Landers: Our fine young son became engaged to a girl who seemed a little far out but we accepted her as she was his choice.

Several of my friends gave a shower for the bride-to-be and she made a profit of better than $400. In addition to the big haul she made on the shower, our side of the family gave her some beautiful wedding gifts. She must have cleared over $1,000 in cash and appliances.

Now, less than 10 months later they are getting a divorce. What I want to know is this: Is the girl entitled to keep all those

Bruce Biossat Governors Conference Echoes National Mood

CINCINNATI (NEA)—Liberal Democratic Gov. Philip Hoff of Vermont pointed out the confu- sions of today's national mood when he was so angered at the conservative tone of a closed governors' conference session that he nearly walked out.

It would have been a lonesome walk. He could find no other takers for the idea as he listened to governors of both parties stress the need for more law and order, voice hostility to fed- eral gun controls and attack the Kerner reports on riots in the cities. (The latter assault was a solo blast from Gov. Spiro Ag- new of Maryland.)

The newest deadly outbreak of racial violence in Cleveland nat- urally did nothing to lighten the mood of those governors whose strong words in private session so upset Hoff.

There was much talk at the conference of the poll gains be- ing made by former Gov. George Wallace of Alabama when measured as a presiden- tial prospect against major party candidates.

What impressed many govern- ors was the fact that this rise had occurred during a period of calm in the cities. They saw it as reflecting a strong current of popular dissatisfaction with ur- ban and campus turmoil which major party presidential nomi- nees in 1968 could ignore only at their peril.

At its strongest, this mood gets close to one of repression. It was this which Hoff thought he sniffed in the air at the gov- ernors' meeting.

Evidently more prevalent, however, is a popular wish merely for tranquility — for re- lief from turmoil, dissension and ever-recurring crises. Texas Gov. John Connally reflected it when he told newsmen he thought people were tired of the chaos and that the Democratic party would do well to seek a

The Doctor Says

By W. G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—In a recent column, you stated that mucous colitis is not caused by a germ and for this reason no antibiotic would be helpful. In another column, you said that chronic amebic dys- entery and other intestinal in- fections were a cause. Doesn't this conflict with your first statement? How do doctors de- cide whether it is caused by nervous tension or an infection? Does the white blood count show infection anywhere in the body? What is the normal white blood count?

A—I rely on alert readers like you to keep me on my toes. I did not intend to confuse or mis- lead you. The garden variety or run-of-the-mill case of mucous colitis is caused by nervous ten- sion, laxatives and irritating foods. On the other hand, intes- tinal infections, although not as common as they once were, do exist. It is important for your doctor to differentiate between the two conditions. He bases his diagnosis on your history, whether there is a fever, physi- cal examination and laboratory findings, especially the stool ex- amination.

A high white cell count is found in many but not all acute febrile infections, including those of the digestive tract. The normal count is within the range of 5,000 to 10,000.

Q—Is there a hormone that is effective in the treatment of tic douloureux?

A—No. Injecting the facial nerve involved is still the most satisfactory treatment. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

A series of works by Tony Smith shows how he developed a modular system in which re- lated canvases are organized in juxtaposition.

The use of color bands on in- creasingly larger canvases is exemplified in a late work by moderate rather than a liberal running mate for front-running Vice President Humphrey.

Hardly any governor who made public utterance at the conference failed to mention "law and order" as either the prime or a leading issue in the 1968 campaign. By comparison, the war in Vietnam, blunted as an issue by the peace talks in Paris, seemed almost lost in ob- scurity.

Yet, for all Hoff's lonesome- ness in Cincinnati, there is an- other mood in some parts of the national electorate which gives him substantial support. There is a cry for a new kind of ac- tivism, for an urgent remaking of the cities and a general re- structuring of United States so- ciety — at great expense — to cope with the dilemmas which are boiling up in riots, demon- strations and just plain obscu- rity.

This demand for action on an unprecedented scale runs sharp- ly athwart the mood which seeks calm and a release from shocking change. The conflict is

New Art Is Object Reality

By MILES A. SMITH

NEW YORK (AP) — A trend in abstract art toward a maxi- mal use of color and a minimal use of form, accompanied by an interchange between painting and sculpture, is summed up in "The Art of the Real: USA 1948-1968," now at the Museum of Modern Art.

The layman unaccustomed to art terminology might charac- terize these objects as very plain blocks, streaks of color, grids, panels and geometrical shapes — none of which seems representational of anything.

As for the interchange be- tween painting and sculpture, the layman might consider some of these objects as raising a question — "Do you hang them on the wall or ceiling, or rest them on the floor?"

The exhibit, which will con- tinue through Sept. 8, was pre- pared by a guest director, E. C. Goossen, who is chairman of the art department at Hunter College. It contains 57 works by 33 artists.

The show's title makes use of the word "real" in a special sense. The works of art are not "realistic" and they have noth- ing to do with "realism."

What the artists have been do- ing, says Goossen in an essay in the catalog, is to "confront the experiences and objects we en- counter every day with an exact equivalence in art."

Instead of "representing" some- thing that already exists, they have "made" something that never existed before, and through that act of "making" they have brought the object to "reality."

The show begins with a "pro- phetic" 1929 work by Georgia O'Keeffe, an early hard-edge work by Alexander Liberman and typical examples of abstrac- tions by Mark Rothko, Barnett Newman and Jackson Pollock.

It demonstrates some of Ells- worth Kelly's experiments in the power of pure color, and Frank Stella's abandonment of the con- ventional shape of the canvas, leading to "the shaped canvas."

There also are specimens il- lustrating how the late Paul Feeley extracted the two-dimen- sional shapes he had used in painting, and converted them in- to three dimensions.

A series of works by Tony Smith shows how he developed a modular system in which re- lated canvases are organized in juxtaposition.

The use of color bands on in- creasingly larger canvases is exemplified in a late work by severe. And probably no presi- dential aspirant or other leading political figure in America today is entirely sure how the weight is spread between the two moods.

In a curious way, perhaps be- cause he is so unconventional a politician, Sen. Eugene Mc- Carthy appeals to both moods. It is his calm, collected man- ner that has won him surpris- ing support among the affluent white Americans who most want relief from turmoil at home.

But, because he has gained the hearts of militant antiwar groups, some militants on the domestic front — though far from all — see him also as a "revolutionary figure" who can transform the cities.

Obviously, McCarthy cannot be both a revolutionary and a tranquilizer. The double image which voters have of him is a symptom of the confusion and unease with which Americans look at all the 1968 candidates and the troubled nation these men want to lead.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Louis Morris, in which the col- ors are pushed to the edges of the raw canvas, calling upon the viewer to use peripheral vision. A similar effect is obtained in the more recent target-like paintings of Kenneth Noland.

Minimal painting has led to gigantic canvases, such as Patricia Johanson's 8' by 28 feet example, which contains only a narrow horizontal band of color in the middle.

Another example of the maxi- mal use of color and the mini- mal use of form is a work by John McCracken — a 10-foot slab of polyester resin in a bright baby blue.

Goossen sums up the inter- change of painting and sculp- ture by saying "Carl Andres' earliest stacked sculptures are distinctly related to Stella's first black pictures; Darby Ban- nard's paired rectangles suggest a number of box and plane pieces by Robert Morris, Don- ald Judd, and others; while Ag- nes Martin's stacked and grid structures find their equivalent in Judd's wall sculptures, Larry Poons's grid paintings, and Sol LeWitt's space cages."

"But when we put all these and other seemingly similar works together, subtle differ- ences appear, and the full rich- ness of the new vocabulary of forms becomes visible."

Goossen concludes by observ- ing that "The new attitude has been turning art inside out; in- stead of perceptual experience being accepted as the means to an end, it has become the end in itself."

While the Renaissance artist used perspective to create an il- lusion of space in which he could make believable "the re- ligious and philosophical ideals of his time," he declares, the contemporary artist tries "to make art itself believable. Con- sequently the very means of art have been isolated and exposed, forcing the spectator to per- ceive himself in the process of his perceptions."

The result, he says, is that "what was once concealed within in art — the technical devices employed by the artist — is now overtly revealed, and what was once the outside — the mean- ing of its forms — has been turned inside."

"The new work of art is very much like a chunk of nature, a rock, a tree, a cloud, and pos- sesses much the same hermetic 'otherness.' Whether this kind of confrontation with the actual can be sustained, whether it can remain vital and satisfying, it is not yet possible to tell."

Reecher-Lauber Vows

MR. AND MRS. LAWRENCE LAUBER

POLO—Elkhorn United Methodist Church was the setting for the July 14 marriage of Miss Sharon Reecher, daughter of the Floyd Reechers, Polo, and Lawrence Lauber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Lauber, Wichita, Kan.

Altar bouquets of white stock, carnations and baby's breath were flanked by lighted tapers in candelabras, and white satin bows trimmed the church pews. The double-ring afternoon wedding was performed by Rev. Maurice Bonecutter, boys' supervisor at McCurdy School, Santa Cruz, N.M., and Rev. Harold Flessner, pastor of the church, and organ music was provided by Mrs. Harold Pepiot, Naperville.

Miss Anita Bohnsack, Columbia, Mich., who attended the bride as maid of honor, was attired in a full-length gown of turquoise silk shantung trimmed with shoulder-bows and a front insertion of lace. Pearls and miniature bows accented her headpiece of turquoise net, and she carried a nosegay of yellow roses and carnations.

An identical dress, styled with a short skirt, was worn by the bride's niece, Miss Richelle Groth, who participated as flower girl. Turquoise net also fashioned her headpiece, and yellow flower petals filled the miniature basket she carried.

Given in marriage by her father, the July bride wore a floor-length gown of ivory cotton brocade which she designed with the assistance of Mrs. A. W. Pringle, Santa Cruz.

The gown's empire bodice, featuring bell sleeves with scalloped cuffs and a scalloped neckline, topped an A-line skirt highlighted by a detachable chapel train edged with a border of imported lace. A lace crown embroidered with pearls and crystals held her elbow-length veil of illusion tiers, and her bouquet combined white roses, carnations and baby's breath accented by satin ribbons with attached rosebuds.

Acting as the bridegroom's best man was David Burgett, Santa Cruz; Dean Harms, Dixon, participated as acolyte, and guests from Polo, Dixon, Milledgeville, Coleta, Sterling, Chicago, Ashton and from Wichita, Yates Center and Liberal, Kan.; Newton and Marion, Iowa; Columbiaville and Detroit, Mich.; Indianapolis, Ind.; Santa Cruz, N. M.; Pueblo, Colo., and Danube, Minn., were ushered by Sheldon Winert, Liberal, and Robert Groth.

For the ceremony and a reception held in the church fellowship hall, Mrs. Reecher chose a costume of rose embroidered-eyelid, and the bridegroom's mother wore an A-line frock of yellow linen. Both selected beige accessories and cymbidium orchid corsages.

Members of the church fellowship committee were in charge of the reception when the refreshment table held turquoise candles and a four-tiered cake decorated with yellow roses and topped by a silver cross. The cake, encircled at the base by a garland of turquoise carnations and baby's breath, was served by Mrs. Richard Ford and Mrs. Robert Groth as punch and coffee were poured by Mrs. Calvin Haehlen, Marion, and Miss Karen Cross, and guests were registered by Miss Donna Allison.

Members of the wedding party and their guests were also entertained at a July 13 rehearsal dinner in the White Pines State Park Lodge hosted by the bridegroom's parents.

A navy blue shell complemented the white and navy blue checked traveling suit worn by the bride for the couple's wedding trip to Chicago and Colorado.

The bride earned a B.M.E. degree in 1967 at North Central College, Naperville, where she was affiliated with Sigma Alpha Iota sorority, and is presently employed as a music teacher.

Mr. Lauber, a 1964 graduate of Wichita University, served two years with the Peace Corps in Pakistan, and is a present instructor of social studies at the McCurdy School, Santa Cruz, where they will be residing.

Miss Judith Ann Scott Weds Peter A. Kenney in Morris

MORRIS—Miss Judith Ann Scott, daughter of the Norman Scotts, Morris, formerly of Dixon, became the bride of Peter Allen Kenney, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Kenney, in a ceremony held June 29 in Bethlehem Lutheran Church.

Rev. Leonard G. Hinderaker, pastor of the church, performed the double-ring wedding, and Miss Arlene Christianson provided organ accompaniment as Miss Patricia Kelley sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "O Perfect Love."

Arrangements of white snapdragons and majestic daisies trimmed the church altar, and bows of lime-green satin were attached to the sanctuary pews.

The bride's floor-length gown, fashioned of white linen, featured a molded bodice trimmed with Venetian lace and styled with a bateau neckline and tapered sleeves. A chapel train accented the gown's sheath skirt, and her bouffant illusion veil fell from a pearl-trimmed pillbox headpiece. Her cultured pearl necklace was a gift from the bridegroom, and she carried a cascade of white butterfly orchids and stephanotis as she approached the altar with her father.

Miss Elaine Bottcher served as maid of honor, and attendants were Mrs. Donald Hartshorn, Champaign, and Miss Claudia Rose. Their lime-green linen gowns combined full-length skirts and empire bodices styled with bateau necklines, elbow-length sleeves and waistline trim of lime-green daisies. The pearl earrings they wore were gifts from the bride, and white daisies formed their head-dresses. Their flowers were white daisies and baby's breath.

Mrs. Scott's costume, a yellow taffeta sheath under white lace, was complemented by a matching hat, and the bridegroom's mother chose a pink linen frock and white accessories. Both wore white cymbidium orchid corsages.

John R. Shields attended Mr. Kenney as best man; groomsmen were Patrick Kenney, Morton, and Steven Field, Peoria.

Bridal Shower Is Given for Miss Kemper

STEWART—Mrs. Robert Eckhardt and her sister, Mrs. James Kemper, were co-hostesses at a Sunday afternoon bridal shower in the Eckhardt home honoring Miss Rosemary Kemper, West Brooklyn, who will exchange marriage vows with Edward Duffy, Ohio, in a ceremony planned for Aug. 3.

Pink and white decorations trimmed the refreshment table, and guests were registered by the honoree's sister, Miss Phyllis Kemper.

Additional guests included Mrs. Jeff Kemper, Mrs. Rowena Bresson and Mrs. Dale Fyke, West Brooklyn; Mrs. Frances Houston and Miss Ginger Queron, Rockford; Mrs. Beverly Giddison and Miss Marilyn Ackland, Compton; Mrs. Marie Kemper, Sandwich; Mrs. Judy Kemper, Franklin Grove, and Mrs. John Beardsley, Stewart.

Reception in Presbyterian Church Hall

A farewell reception for Rev. Alden R. Hickman and family is planned for 3 to 5 p.m. Sunday in the First Presbyterian Church social hall.

After serving two years as pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Franklin Grove, the Rev. Mr. Hickman came to Dixon in September of 1965 to assume duties as assistant pastor of the church, and was later elected by the congregation to be associate pastor. His resignation will be effective Aug. 31, and he will deliver his final sermon Aug. 25 in the church. He is current president of the Lee County Ministerial Association, and has been active in numerous civic organizations, and in local, regional and state church responsibilities. He also serves as stated clerk of the Freeport Presbytery, and Mrs. Hickman has directed the church youth and senior choirs since their arrival in Dixon.

They will be moving to Heyworth, where the Rev. Mr. Hickman will pilot a new venture in the union of Presbyterian and Methodist congregations.

Mrs. Max Van Scoy is chairman of Sunday's reception, which is being planned by wives of the church elders, and area friends of the honoree are invited to attend.

FURNITURE CARE

Outdoor cane or rattan furniture holds up better when in use if it is scrubbed clean before a fresh finish is applied. Use a stiff brush and work dirt out of the crevices. Dry piece thoroughly; then apply oil, wax or polish, according to the manufacturer's directions.

Streamlined Tennis Styles

Streamlined styles are the order of the court this summer. Some tennis buffs may regret the passing of "Gorgeous Gussy" frills, but top tennis fashion designer, Teddy Tinling, believes these are not compatible with the sleek sophistication of the space age.

A sensational wrapover minijacket replaces the traditional tennis dress in his new collection. Evidence of the dress remains only in the longer torso which is attached to a swirling miniskirt or culotte. Another new number is the tennis tunic.

Tinling has discarded the traditional scoop neckline, too. In its place are the polo neck or the low V.

Where flower trims still appear, they are made in Reemay, a spunbonded polyester material which does not fray and is exceptional for its shape retention and easy-care qualities.

Mrs. Bogott Is Club Hostess

Mrs. Lyle Bogott entertained the Zion Household Science Club Thursday at a dessert luncheon followed by a business session which opened with the pledge of allegiance to the American flag.

"Household Hints" was the afternoon's roll-call topic, and prizes in games were awarded to Mrs. James Wolf, Mrs. Frank Heaton, Mrs. John R. Moeller and Mrs. Glen Gilbert.

Mrs. Frank Kemp was announced as hostess for the club's next meeting Aug. 29 when a dessert luncheon will precede entertainment.

Fabrics chosen by Tinling are this time, as always, a highlight of the collection. Dacron from Britain steals into the act—some styles are in 100 per cent Dacron, others a blend with cotton.

There is also a rich variety of jersey, herringbone twill shirting, silver spot organza, cavalry twill, linen-types and sailcloth.

Thursday Night Bridge Awards At Country Club

Dixon Country Club members were entertained Thursday night in the clubhouse when a 7 p.m. dinner preceded bridge games.

Prizes for women participating went to Mrs. Allen Whitmer, first; Mrs. Donald Sprecher, second, and Mrs. James McGuan, third, and awards for men were won by Mr. Sprecher, first; Mr. Whitmer, second, and Mr. McGuan, third.

A similar event was announced for 7 p.m. Aug. 8, and reservations should be made at the club.

By Oswald and James Jacoby

Marshall Miles concluded his article on entry problems for the May-June issue of "Popular Bridge" with a rather unusual hand of well-known type.

South's choice of six-trump rather than six diamonds for the final contract is due to the fact that he is playing match point duplicate and six no-trump bid and made will be a top score while six diamonds will only be average.

He wins the first heart in dummy; leads the five of spades and puts in his jack. Should the jack lose, he will go down several tricks; but the jack holds. He has found an extra entry to his own hand and is able to knock out the ace of diamonds and get his top score.

There are probably a few remarks about horseshoes and blind luck, but it is possible that one of your readers may have noticed that East could have beaten the contract. All East would have to do would be to play his queen of spades at trick two. This would kill that extra entry to the South hand and keep the diamond suit from being brought in.

This second hand high play to kill an entry is not impossible. Every expert has made a play along those lines more than once. This one would be a trifle sensational but should not be out of the question. It should not be hard for East to realize that his queen of spades would be worthless if retained in his hand. Then, if East were a real expert or even just a student of the game who had seen this play discussed in various bridge writings, he might well play the queen.

On the other hand if one of us happened to be playing this six no-trump contract and someone did make the play against us, you would probably be able to fry an egg by dropping it on the head of the declarer.

Local All-Stars Win in Tournament

Baltimore Loses To Leaders 4-1

By VITO STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer

Daryl Patterson choked off the Baltimore Orioles' best threat and gave the Detroit Tigers some breathing room in the American League race.

It could have been a time for the Tigers to panic Friday night but Patterson made it a breeze with four innings of one-hit relief ball that started when he struck out the side with the bases loaded to throttle the Orioles 4-1. The victory boosted the Tigers' lead to 6½ games over the Orioles.

Patterson entered the game with the bases loaded and none out in the sixth inning and the Baltimore crowd of 35,627 cheering for a rally that would erase the Tigers' 2-0 lead.

A 24-year-old, 6-foot-4, 195-pound rookie, Patterson quickly moved down the Orioles on 13 pitches to end the inning. His first pitch was a ball to pinch hitter Fred Valentine but then he threw eight straight strikes. He got Valentine to strike out, then struck out Brooks Robinson and got two quick strikes on Dave Johnson.

Ends in Nine

Johnson then took three balls but Patterson blew a called third strike past him on the 3-2 pitch to end the inning. Except for Boog Powell's eight-inning homer, Patterson blanked the Orioles the rest of the way to save Earl Wilson's eighth win.

Wilson left the game with a strained left knee after Mark Belanger singled in the sixth and the count went to 2-0 on Frank Robinson. Jon Warden came on to complete the walk to Robinson and gave up a bunt single to Powell that loaded the bases.

Enter Patterson, exit the Orioles.

He's a strong kid with a strong arm and he throws strikes," Manager Mayo Smith said.

Elsewhere in the American League, New York blanked Cleveland 5-0, Boston nipped Washington 2-1, Chicago topped California 3-1 and Minnesota blasted Oakland 10-4.

In the National League, Los Angeles beat Chicago 3-2, St. Louis drubbed Pittsburgh 9-1 and lost the second game 5-4 in 10 innings, Atlanta swept a doubleheader from Philadelphia 5-4, and 3-2, New York blanked Cincinnati 2-0 and Houston defeated San Francisco 4-1.

Originally signed by the Dodgers but acquired by the Tigers in the first-year draft following the 1964 season, Patterson had toiled for four seasons in the minors until this season when the Tigers brought him up and now he has a 1.66 ERA in 22 games with a 1-2 record and three saves. He had pitched 11 1-3 consecutive scoreless innings before Powell tagged him for the homer and he's now pitched 10 innings against the Orioles the last two weekends and given up just that one run and five hits.

Lloyd Ewing Explains Stock Car Racing

(EDITOR'S NOTE —This is the first in a two-part story of Lloyd Ewing of Kewanee, who is one of the featured drivers each week at Speedbowl Park in Sterling. Ewing not only races, but is the flagman at the Peoria track, and is regarded by many as one of the finest flagmen in the business. The complete story was compiled by The Telegraph's Weekly correspondent, Becky Tornow.)

WALNUT — Lloyd Ewing, Kewanee, is unique in the world of racing as he is capable of handling both flagman and driver's chores on area tracks.

At Speedbowl Park, Sterling, Ewing drives number 65. This 1964 Ford has been outfitted with magnesium racing wheels and tires; four-speed transmission; hydraulic suspension; specially built "Franklyn" rear end out of Florida; disc brakes, and a specially built '64 engine.

Speedbowl is Ewing's favorite track because of its speed and, as he puts it, "It's just plain fun to run Sterling. You're up there with the best racing has to offer with Duke, McDonough, Eakers, Connelly and the rest."

Ewing became interested in racing at an early age and his first car, a Hudson, sponsored by L. Dunn, raced at Bushnell, Ill.

His first time out Ewing captured the fastest timed lap and placed second in the feature. That same week, he traveled to the "big time," Peoria, where he placed third in the feature event. From Peoria, Ewing tried his luck at East Moline, where he captured the season championship in 1955.

As sometimes happens to the "would-be greats" in any sport, Ewing was struck down, off the track. He had to give up racing for a year after undergoing surgery.

During this time, he was offered a time-keeper's spot at Peoria. Lloyd took it and kept in touch with his racing pals, to "keep his fingers in the pie."

Ewing tried to quit the time-keeper's spot after two years and go back to racing. But, the track owners were too impressed with his fairness and precise good judgment of a race in progress to let him go easily. Thus, he began his second career, that of flagman at Peoria.

Those who are impressed with Ewing's cautious conscientious efforts as a driver will not believe his performances as a flagman.

Lloyd Ewing is one of the most spectacular flagmen of northern Illinois. Ewing starts his races from the track at a standing start. He remains on the oval at the starting gate during the whole race.

As a driving flagman, Ewing's judgment is tops. He handles his flags with superb showmanship and every driver respects his fairness and black-flag decisions.

Ewing wanted to go back to racing as soon as he could, but the Peoria officials made the position so appealing he couldn't give it up.

More offers from other tracks began coming in. He did some work at Davenport and East Moline. As Lloyd puts it, he "tried to be sensible but couldn't resist the urge to drive."

The racing team of Chadd and Crockett offered Lloyd and Lloyd Caldwell, Prophetstown, a Chevy with the agreement that Caldwell drive in Peoria and Ewing on the other tracks.

Thus, Ewing is back in racing. The team arrangement has replaced Jim Gerber at Peoria with Ewing still handling the chores at Sterling.

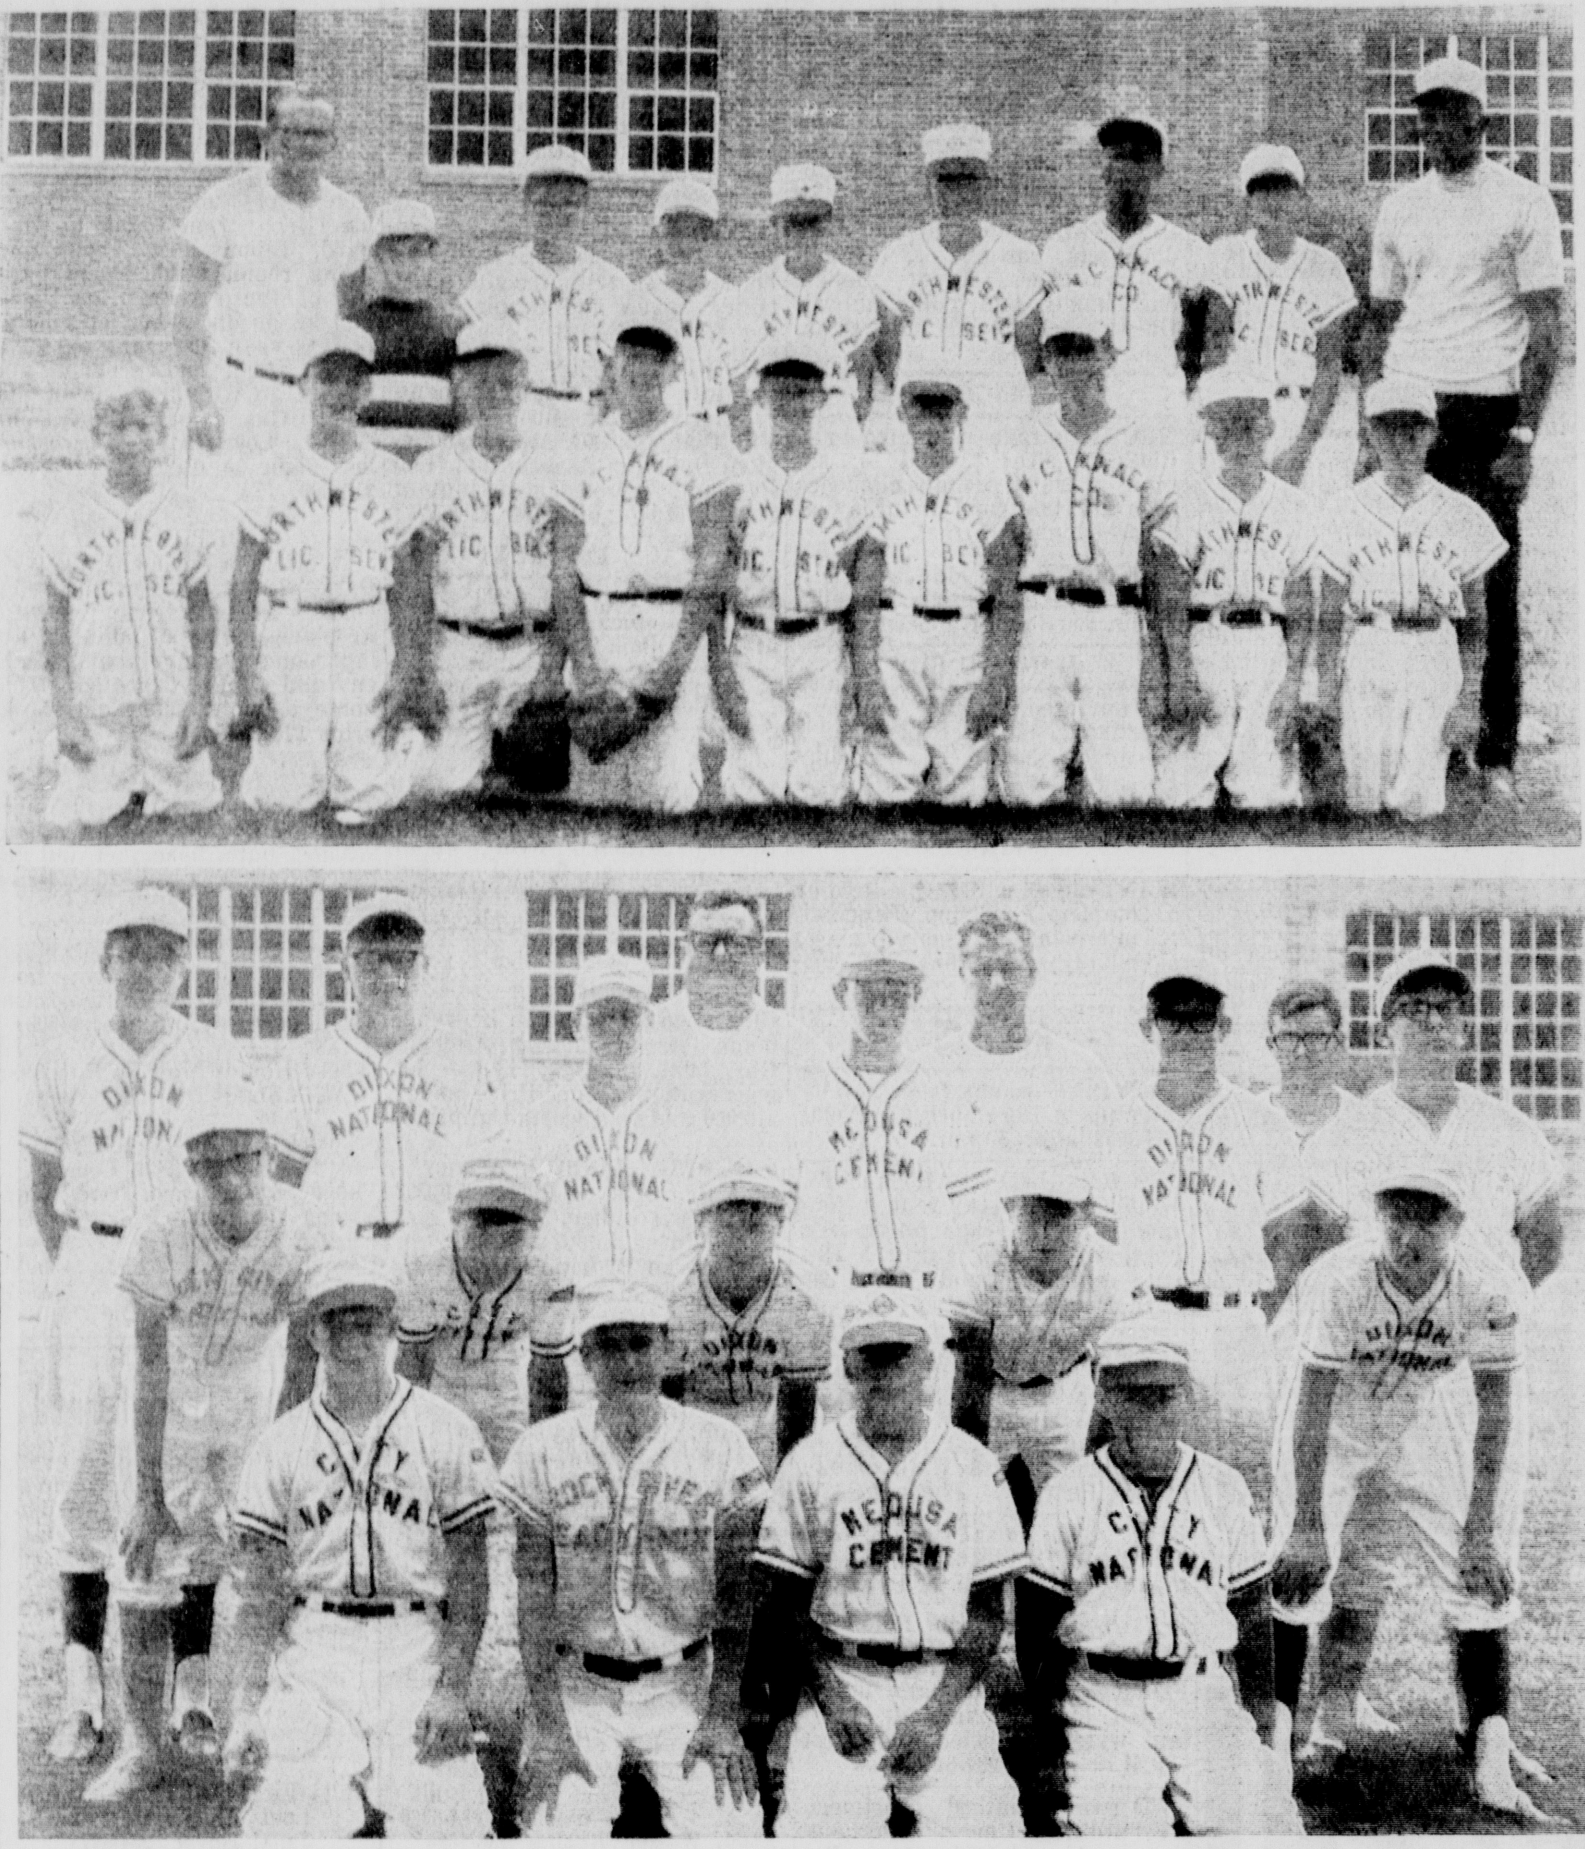

Dave Crockett, Kewanee, and Charles Chadd, Neponset, are co-owners and main mechanics while Hayden Youngren, Kewanee, and Mick McCullough, Silvis, round out the crew. McCullough has outfitted the carrier with tool cases hand-made to receive the specialized tools, gears, etc., needed while racing at the tracks.

Ewing feels he has the best owners and crew in the business. He pointed out that, when building his car, Chadd and Crockett ordered new fenders and a hood for the machine. After the first night out, Ewing told them the front end was a little too heavy.

The next weekend a new customized fiberglass hood was fitted to the machine. The magnesium wheels are also of extra expense, but lighten the car's weight considerably. He also pointed out that specialized parts are ordered air freight express.

It is because of this idealistic partnership that Ewing's car is in top shape (with the exception of a minor carburetion problem) and he drives with care.

Those fans unfamiliar with the art of driving a racing machine will be surprised to learn that a driver puts as much time into strengthening the muscles of his arms and hands as a good runner does his legs. A tremendous grip has to be maintained on the steering wheel. It also takes muscular arms to hold the wheel in place, to maintain one's position in a race, let alone overtake and outdrive your competitor to move up during a race.

Bronco and Pony League All-Stars
Pictured above are the local Bronco and Pony League All-Star teams which are playing in a tournament in Rockford this week. Both teams lost their first encounter in the tourney, but rebounded Friday to score wins over their opponents. The Bronco league stars will be playing a game today at 5:30 p.m.; while the Pony league stars are slated for action at 8 p.m. All action is taking place at Gayle Park in Rockford.

Vince Lombardi Moves Upstairs; Nothing Changes With Packers

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UPI) — Vince Lombardi of Green Bay and Marcello Mastroianni of Rome have that same cosmopolitan quality about them, a certain cool that makes either look perfectly at home sitting in the back seat of a Rolls Royce or the front row of a Turkish bath.

You generally picture Vince Lombardi out there on the sidelines, walking cat-like up and down, whenever the Packers are busy on the field.

That wasn't exactly the picture in Green Bay the other night though when the world champs of all pro football played their annual intra-squad game.

A crowd of 33,814 turned out, which is rather unbelievable for a mere game-length scrimmage, but more unbelievable yet was the figure sitting on a folding chair way up on the third deck of the unfinished new press box in Green Bay.

It was Vince Lombardi, of course, looking completely at home and cooler than Marcello Mastroianni in the final reel even though he was sitting, in what for him, was a strange place.

Ordinarily, Lombardi would have been down there on the sidelines when the Packers' offensive team went against the defensive team Thursday night. The offense "won" the contest, 10-0, but the defense actually performed better because Phil Bengtson, Green Bay's new head coach, saw to it the offense had the ball for the entire 60 minutes of the "game."

Lombardi The Observer

This was Lombardi's first real look at the Packers in action since last winter when he quit as their coach to devote himself strictly to the club's general managership.

"I don't want anybody up in the press box," said Lombardi before he went up there Thursday night to watch the game himself.

It wasn't so much that he wished to be alone as it was he was taking precautions to see no one got hurt. The Packers' new press box will be completed in time for their home opener with Philadelphia on Sept. 15 but right now the sides haven't

This was Lombardi's first real look at the Packers in action since last winter when he quit as their coach to devote himself strictly to the club's general management.

"I don't want anybody up in the press box," said Lombardi before he went up there Thursday night to watch the game himself.

It wasn't so much that he wished to be alone as it was he was taking precautions to see no one got hurt. The Packers' new press box will be completed in time for their home opener with Philadelphia on Sept. 15 but right now the sides have been put in yet and that first step, if you miss it, can be a bit, shall we say, steep, because it's 70 feet down to the next landing.

That was why Lombardi, who's always thinking, didn't want others up there. Not until it's a lot safer, anyway.

For him, though, it was all right.

He called down to some of the writers on the lower level and joked with them before the scrimmage, then sat back and observed closely what took place after the opening kickoff.

Bengtson ran the show, though, not Lombardi, but for those who don't follow the Packers closely it would be hard to tell because Bengtson, who coached the defensive team before succeeding Lombardi, continued working chiefly with the defense Thursday night.

Among the things the Packers are looking for in preparing to defend their title is a replacement for Don Chandler, their retired place kicking specialist. Jerry Kramer and Chuck Mercein are two of the candidates, and free agent Metro Gerela is another. Kramer booted a 14-yard field goal in Thursday night's tussle and Mercein the extra point after touchdown but Gerela, who kicks the ball soccer style, missed a pair of field goal tries from 49 and 48 yards out.

Lombardi took the whole thing in quietly in comfortable 75 degree temperature, which was 88 degrees warmer than the last time he was in the same stadium for the Packers' 21-17 NFL title win over the Dallas Cowboys last Dec. 31.

When Green Bay's games are over, Lombardi usually issues the statements but last Thursday night it was a little different. Bengtson did.

He said he was somewhat disappointed in the offense because it could score only 10 points.

Horn, Williams Are Impressive

"Of course," he added, "it's normal that the defense is ahead of the offense at this stage of the game. I thought (reserve quarterback) Don Horn showed up well and Travis Williams looked like his old self."

Bengtson, Lombardi and all the players went to nearby St. Norbert's College for a big buffet and reception following the intra-squad skirmish and the Packer coaches studied the game films Friday morning.

The team went through a one hour-and-a-half practice session Friday afternoon sharpening up for its Aug. 2 contest against the College All-Stars in Chicago. Bengtson did the supervising and Lombardi took care of some other work in his private office.

Vince Lombardi has moved upstairs but nothing has really changed that much with the Packers.

Sports Briefs

KINGSTON, Jamaica (UPI)—Hard hitting Percy Hayle, the promising lightweight contender from Jamaica, attempts to win the Commonwealth title for the second time tonight when he takes on Ghana's Love Allotey. Hayles was unsuccessful in a bid three years ago to win the title from Bunny Grant, also of Jamaica.

COLOGNE, Germany (UPI)—Charles Bishop, an American amateur, and England's Bernard Hunt, shared the lead today at the outset of the second round of the West German open golf championship.

Bishop and Hunt both fired four under par 68s Friday over a soggy 6,715-yard course to lead Vicente Fernandez of Argentina by a stroke and Martin Roessing of Holland by two.

Oswalt Homers Twice For Pony League Stars

The Dixon Pony and Bronco League All-Stars bounced back Friday as they won their second game in the Rockford tournament, after falling in their first test.

The Bronco League stars had a relatively easy time of it Friday as they bombarded the Harvard Bronco nine 13-2 as Jeff Short and Tom Wentling pitched three-hit baseball for the locals.

The Dixonites had a real field day in the fifth inning when they scored five runs to really put the game away. Harvard was able to score only twice, these coming in their half of the fourth inning, after Dixon had jumped to an 8-0 lead.

Wentling and Tom Burgett each collected a pair of hits for the locals, while Jim Davidson hit a double and Robert LeBlanc blasted a homer for the winners.

Today at 5:30 p.m. the locals play Rockford in the semifinals of the tournament. If they win, they will be meeting the other Rockford team for the championship of the Bronco League sectional title at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Brian Oswalt drove in seven runs for the Dixon Pony League Friday with a grand-slam home run and a three-run homer to pace the local Pony League All-Stars to a 10-9 victory over Freeport.

Phil Tarvin, who pitched a no-hitter in local league play earlier this season, was the winning hurler in relief of starter Stan Curtis.

The game proved to be a thriller from start to finish as Freeport scored two in the first while the locals tallied one. Dixon then forged ahead in the third by scoring three, but Freeport scored six in the top of the fourth to regain the lead before Dixon scored four in the fourth and two more in their half of the fifth to pull the game out of the fire. Neither team was able to score in the sixth inning.

Dixon's Pony League Stars are now 1-1 for the tournament and will be playing the Loves Park Pony League Stars Saturday at 8 p.m.

Both the Bronco and Pony League tournaments are being played at Gayle Park in Rockford, located just off Meridian Road. Area baseball fans are urged to go to Rockford and back the local baseball All-Stars.

Rookie Tops Cubs 3-2

By United Press International

A rookie whipped the Chicago Cubs Friday in Wrigley Field.

His name is Jim Fairley, and he tripled home two runs in the second inning and scored the third on Zoilo Versalles' double to give Los Angeles a 3-2 win over the hometowners.

Bill Singer, who had lost five in a row before the Dodgers came to Chicago, took the victory, but needed seventh-inning aid from Jim Brewer.

Bill Hands, who gave up all the Dodgers' runs in the second, took the loss.

In California Friday night, the Chicago White Sox squeezed out a 3-1 win over the Angels. A fluke triple in the first inning by Duane Josephson accounted for two runs in the ninth-place Sox' win.

Josephson came through again in the third, with a single that brought home pitcher Joe Horlen and wrapped it up for the Chicagoans.

Horlen allowed eight hits in gaining the win and evening his record at 8-8. He was relieved by Wilbur Wood in the eighth.

The White Sox send Bob Pridy (1-5) against the Angels' George Brunet (11-9) tonight. The Cubs count on Ferguson Jenkins (10-10) against the Dodgers' southpaw Claude Osteen (8-14).

Baseball Results

In Future League Play Wednesday evening, Warner Motive defeated the Marine Corps by a score of 7-6.

Jim Hyde was the top hitter in the ballgame for the winners as he collected a pair of doubles and a triple.

Saxon Burdge was the winning pitcher with Steve Piska doing the catching for Warner, while Doug Hipple was the loser with Nagy doing the receiving.

Loves Floor Covering smashed Helander Masonry 24-8 in a Pee Wee game played Friday night.

The win gives Loves an 8-2 mark for the year, while Helander is now 5-5.

Dan Kopacz was the winning pitcher with Mark Babiarz doing the catching for Loves. Kessel and Rick composed the losing battery combination.

John Love hit a grand slam home run and Kopacz blasted a triple as did Topping and Johnson for the winners.

BAASTAD, Sweden (UPI)—Roger Taylor of Britain and Nicola Pilic of Yugoslavia, surprise winners of Friday matches, take on upset victims Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., and John Newcombe of Australia today in second round action in the all pro Champion Cup tennis tourney.

Taylor overcame a two set deficit to upset Ralston 3-6, 3-6, 4-7, 6-1 while Pilic surprised Newcombe 6-1, 6-1, 1-6, 6-4. They will switch opponents for today's matches.
